

Ocean County Library Books-By-Mail

What is Ocean County Library's Books-By-Mail Service?

Just what the name says: Library books are borrowed and returned by U.S. Postal Service mail.

Who is eligible to use Books-By-Mail?

Any homebound individual over 18 who has, or is eligible for, an Ocean County Library Borrower's Card and is unable to get into the physical library due to illness or disability. A physician must complete the Medical Verification form.

How does Books-By-Mail Work?

Once you have registered with Ocean County Library's Books-By-Mail service, you will request books in writing or over the phone. There is a limit of checking out four books at a time. Your items will be packaged in a special mailer bag. Your local post office will deliver it to your residence.

How do I return books?

Each book is due back at the library on the latest date stamped on receipt enclosed with your library delivery. To return books, put materials in the same blue mailer bag. Flip the address index card over so that the "Ocean County Library" address is face out. Attached the plastic safety fastener in the same fashion as when it came to you. (You will find a new fastener inside the mailer bag with your books.) The postage is prepaid by the Library. Once your books are ready, call your local post office to have them stop at your door to take the package.

There is no charge for Books-By-Mail service but a Medical Verification form must be submitted and may be required to be updated periodically.
